American Telemedicine Association (ATA) The world's largest scientific meeting and exposition focusing exclusively on telemedicine

AT&T is passionate about telemedicine. Our solutions enable remote diagnosis through high definition video conferencing over a fast secure reliable network. -- AT&T Telemedicine solutions that are scalable and customizable for your environment.

Our experienced healthcare team of Advocates, and Sales and Marketing professionals is here to assist providers, payers and care givers with the right information to make critical IT decisions that impact the delivery of care today and in the future. Their expertise and background in the healthcare industry allows them to see business challenges from your perspective, and they can provide specific thought leadership in developing solutions to those challenges

We invite you to visit us at ATA 2008 where you can experience interactive, innovative telemedicine technologies and speak with AT&T healthcare experts about solutions for your unique environment. You will discover enterprise solutions in the AT&T booth designed with you in mind:

- Integrated Healthcare Solutions that provide wired and wireless access to patient data thereby helping to improve the quality of patient care
- Telehealth – Clinical Medicine applications that support remote monitoring and diagnosis
